SOUTHERN CALIFORNIA PRESENTS

Nina Tran is a wife to a loving husband and a mom to 3 energetic kids in the San Fernando Valley. She has been practicing and promoting calligraphy and penmanship since 2015. While she is still and will always be a student, she is passionate and enthusiastic about sharing and teaching her growing knowledge of the pointed pen. Her main focus of study are Copperplate Script, Spencerian Script, and Gothicized Italic.

When not practicing at her desk, folding laundry, or picking up kids from school, she also enjoys morning walks, knitting, and tending to her balcony garden.

Spencerian is a handwriting system developed by Platt R. Spencer in the mid 1800s from which other scripts such as Ornamental Penmanship and American Cursive are derived.

We will begin by briefly reviewing how to use a pointed pen, then dive deep into the foundational concepts of Spencerian script -- the unique characteristics that make up the script (shapes, shading, slant, proportions, etc.).

We will then warm up with movement drills such as the cross drill and running ovals. Once warmed up, we will study the basic principles (stroke) of the uppercase letterforms then tackle each letter group, stroke by stroke.

By the end of the class, we will have learned all of the standard Spencerian uppercase letters, A-Z, including a few basic flourishing strokes to add variety and personality to the capital letters

Some pointed pen experience is advised. This is a great class for those who are just learning Spencerian script as well as seasoned penmen who desire to brush up their script.
