Beginning with a gentle introduction into the FORM and construction of these contemporary letters - we shall learn a 'method of study' and not simply a style of writing.

This will enable us to:

- know why and how they 'work'
- to better understand how to modify them to better meet our needs
- and to help us practice more effectively

In exercises and projects, using pencil, pen, and ink or colour, we shall be modifying the FORM to better express the words and ourselves in a manner that explores legibility, beauty, and visual interest.

A feature of the workshop will be to layer letters and/or words using water colours that excites and stimulates the curiosity of the viewer and greatly increases 'visual interest.'

Peter has been a full time professional and enthusiastic calligrapher for over 45 years, working in a studio producing Books of Remembrances, Civic and Royal Certificates, etc.

He has taught widely throughout the UK and Europe as well as Japan, Hong Kong, South Africa, and travelled to the US 3 or 4 times every year for 28 consecutive years. He has taught at over 25 International Conventions in the US, Canada, and Europe. In 2006, he moved permanently to Tennessee to marry Sherri; where they now live and still teach weekends and longer workshops throughout the US and Canada. They teach private classes on Traditional Gilding, Letterforms and Layout and Design, etc. in their own home at a more focused and student-specific level.
