

Layering Art & Letters

WITH REBECCA WILD

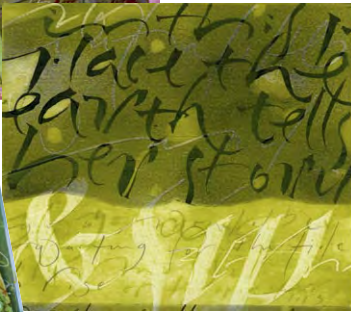

Saturday and Sunday: September 12-13, 2020

9:30am to 4:30pm

with a lunch break

Location:

Valley location TBA

Explore rewarding new techniques that combine art with words. Working on small format paper, we combine drawing materials, paint and various resists with handwriting (no matter how readable) and self-crafted letterforms to create richly layered pieces that have a striking, print-like quality. All techniques link together allowing endless opportunity for individual expression. You will complete this class with fresh ideas, heightened enthusiasm, and a hand-constructed portfolio of your work.

All levels welcome!

Rebecca Wild is an artist and calligrapher from Port Townsend, Washington. Her work pairs a love of letterforms with the luminous qualities of drawing materials and paint. She was a calligraphy and art instructor in Portland, Oregon for 25 years and now teaches workshops for art centers and guilds throughout the West Coast.

Rebecca is an enthusiastic and organized instructor whose emphasis on process and technique is infused with creativity and encouragement. She strives to help beginners feel successful and to give established artists fresh ideas. Her goal is to make the making of art accessible to everyone.
